PART C
QIII	Importance of Advertising Advertising plays a very important role in today's age of competition. Advertising is one thing which has become a necessity for everybody in today's day to day life, be it the producer, the traders, or the customer. Advertising is an important part. Lets have a look on how and where is advertising important:	7	7

	1. Advertising is important for the customers Just imagine television or a newspaper or a radio channel without an advertisement! No, no one can any day imagine this. Advertising plays a very important role in customers life. Customers are the people who buy the product only after they are made aware of the products available in the market. If the product is not advertised, no customer will come to know what products are available and will not buy the product even if the product was for their benefit. One more thing is that advertising helps people find the best products for themselves, their kids, and their family. When they come to know about the range of products, they are able to compare the products and buy so that they get what they desire after spending their valuable money. Thus, advertising is important for the customers. 2. Advertising is important for the seller and companies producing the products Yes, advertising plays very important role for the producers and the sellers of the products, because ▪ Advertising helps increasing sales ▪ Advertising helps producers or the companies to know their competitors and plan accordingly to meet up the level of competition. ▪ If any company wants to introduce or launch a new product in the market, advertising will make a ground for the product. Advertising helps making people aware of the new product so that the consumers come and try the product. ▪ Advertising helps creating goodwill for the company and gains customer loyalty after reaching a mature age. ▪ The demand for the product keeps on coming with the help of advertising and demand and supply become a never ending process. 3. Advertising is important for the society ▪ Advertising helps educating people. There are some social issues also which advertising deals with like child labour, liquor consumption, girl child killing, smoking, family planning education, etc. thus, advertising plays a very important role in society.
QIV	Types (or Classification) of Advertising Advertising message can be conveyed to the target audience through several advertising media. A wide variety of media is used for publishing advertising message. Each medium has its relative advantages (merits), limitations (demerits), and applicability. Important types of advertising discussed below: Advertising media Advertising medium is a means through which the advertising messages are transmitted by the advertisers to the prospective and existing customers, with an objective to providing information and increasing sales.	7	7

	Kinds of media I Indoor Advertising Media: Newspaper, magazine, TV, Radio, Theatre etc II Outdoor Advertising Media
QV	Types of Advertising Agencies 1. Full Service Agencies 2. Modular Agencies 3. In- House Agencies 4. Creative Boutiques. 5. Media buying agencies.	7	7
QVI	The Advertiser looks for an advertising agency whose services and expertise meets his requirements. Following factors should be considered while selecting an advertising agency:- Services offered by Ad-agency Experience of Agency Location Size of Agency Competitors' Agency Image of Agency Rates Charged by Agency. Financial Strength of Agency Past Records of Agency	7	7
QVII	It has been said that a picture is worth a thousand words. Therefore, in an era of constrained character limits, content restrictions, and translation complexity, advertising art can be a powerful tool used to convey promotional messaging. Advertising art can be defined as the graphic design used to advertise and promote. Advertising art can be in the form of photography, digital development, illustrations, and more. The ultimate goal of advertising art is to persuade consumers and/or convey a message. Advertising art is a form of visual rhetoric. Visual rhetoric refers to the framework by which visual images are used to communicate a message, idea, or point of view.	7	7
QVIII	Advertising budget process There are certain steps which can be followed in creating an advertising budget. They can be explained as below: 1. Understanding advertising objectives based on the goals which have been set by the company 2. Determine the tasks, ad campaigns which could be done 3. Formulating, evaluating and preparing the breakup of advertising budget 4. Taking approvals from the senior management 5. Allocation of funds for different activities under the advertising budget 6. Monitoring and controlling the expenditure and revising it for better profit	7	7

QIX	Future of advertising in India It is an open ended question To be answered by student according to the current situation of the market.	7	7
QX	Rules and Standards to be followed in advertisements ASCI (Advertising Standards Council of India) regulate the advertising in India. Some ethical rules and standards to be followed in advertisements are 1. Advertisements cannot be directed towards any religious or political belief, or to gain undue advantage in any form. 2. Any goods or services that are advertised should not have any defect or deficiencies of any form declared in the Consumer Protection Act 1986. 3. Products should not be portrayed in a way that misleads the public to infer that the item has some special, miraculous or a super natural quality. 4. Audible matter of the advertisement video should not be excessively 'loud'. 5. Advertisement should not endanger the safety of children or produce any sort of interest that prompts them to adopt or imitate unhealthy practices. 6. Any type of offensive, indecent, suggestive, vulgar, repulsive themes and/or treatment must be avoided under all circumstances.	7	7
QXI	SLOGANS/Taglines/Catch Phrase: Slogans are one-line promises of value. When used as headlines, slogans should grab attention. A slogan is a catchy phrase or series of words used to help consumers remember a company, brand or product. Companies create slogans to use in various marketing efforts in hopes that the phrases will stick in people's minds. That way, when a consumer needs a product or service offered by a variety of companies, that consumer will choose the product or service that is top-of-mind from slogan recognition. Slogans must be memorable. Even though they consist of only a few words, slogans can take hours, sometimes much more, to write. The slogan should match the feel of the logo, because they are often displayed together. Use rhyming or humor if appropriate to help people remember your slogan. Taglines are similar to slogan but are long term and more permanent than Slogans Qualities or Features of a good slogan • It should be memorable • It should recall the brand name • It should differentiate the brand from others • It should impart positive feelings for the brand. • It should reflect the brand's personality. • .It should be original • .It should be simple • .It should be believable • It should use rhyming or humor to help people remember your slogan • It should not be complicated or clumsy. CAPTION Captions say the meaning of the content going with the image.	7	7

	Caption is defined as a descriptive title or dialogue words for the image. The main use of caption is to identify the subject of a photograph by adding a title under the photograph. Advertising captions are generally short, memorable phrases that are used in marketing campaigns. How to Create a Good Caption: • Stress on the benefits. • Be creative. • Keep it precise. • Include your company name • Get opinions from all. • Trademark it.
QXII	When running a business, advertising your products and services is one of the most effective ways to bring in new customers and generate sales. In the process of creating an advertisement, several elements should be included to improve results. By improving your advertising efforts, your business could directly improve its profits. 1.Features One of the essential elements of an advertising campaign is the features of the product or service. The features are what the product offers that the customer can benefit from. For example, if you were selling carpet, a feature would be that the carpet fiber is nylon. This is a specific feature that this piece of carpet offers that other carpets do not. 2.Benefits Benefits are another essential component to include when creating an advertisement. While benefits are closely related to features, they are not the same. For instance, a feature of carpet is the fiber. A benefit tells the customer why that fiber is attractive and what it does. With a nylon carpet, the seller could claim that it is long lasting than other fibers, which keeps it looking better over the long term. 3.Urgency Effective advertising often includes some wording to create a sense of urgency. When urgency is created, it often pushes customers into action. For example, saying that the product is available for a "limited time" might push a customer to make a purchase. Without urgency, the customer may feel like he can wait until a more opportune time 4.Layout In a successful advertisement, layout of the information is sometimes just as important as the information itself. You must make the advertisement look appealing to the customer. Simply putting some words on a piece of paper do not create an advertisement. Combine visually appealing elements such as color, word placement and font size. Including images and logos can also help the overall appearance of the ad. 5.Offer After presenting the features and benefits and creating a sense of urgency, it is important to make an offer to the customer. The offer typically includes the price, financing terms or some other	7	7 information that the customer needs to make a purchase. You may give the price of the product in the offer or you tell the customer where to go to make a purchase, such as a website or a store. You can also specify some sales promotion information if required. This is important as the customer needs to know what to do next after seeing the ad.

QXIII	STEPS IN ADVERTISING The following are the steps involved in the process of advertising: 1. Briefing: the advertiser needs to brief about the product or the service which has to be advertised and doing the SWOT analysis of the company and the product. 2. Knowing the Objective: one should first know the objective or the purpose of advertising. 3. Research: this step involves finding out the market behaviour, knowing the competitors, what type of advertising they are using, what is the response of the consumers, availability of the resources needed in the process, etc. 4. Target Audience: the next step is to identify the target consumers most likely to buy the product. The target should be appropriately identified without any confusion. For e.g. if the product is a health drink for growing kids, then the target customers will be the parents who are going to buy it and not the kids who are going to drink it. 5. Media Selection: now that the target audience is identified, one should select an appropriate media for advertising so that the customers who are to be informed about the product and are willing to buy are successfully reached. 6. Setting the Budget: then the advertising budget has to be planned so that there is no short of funds or excess of funds during the process of advertising and also there are no losses to the company. 7. Designing and Creating the Ad: first the design that is the outline of ad on papers is made by the copywriters of the agency, then the actual creation of ad is done with help of the art directors and the creative personnel of the agency. 8. Perfection: then the created ad is re-examined and the ad is redefined to make it perfect to enter the market. 9. Execution: the next step is to run the advertisings in the selected media.	7	7
QXIV	Outdoor Advertising Outdoor advertising, also known as out-of-home advertising, is advertising that reaches consumers when they are outside their homes. Merits : • This is the best for local advertising; and for moving population. • It engages few seconds of people's time and need no effort. • It always attracts the viewers, because of its style and colourful appearance. • It is a low cost medium.	7	7

	Demerits: • It conveys limited information. • The effect on prospects cannot be measured. • It can be used only as a supplementary type of advertising. Types of Outdoor Advertising a) Mural Advertising (Posters) : These are usually pasted on walls. Such a method of outdoor advertising is also known as 'Mural Advertising'. A poster can create a very good visual effect. Posters are less expensive too b) Advertising Boards: These are kept at certain fixed places where people frequently assemble like bus stops, railway stations, etc. c) Vehicular Advertising (Transit advertising): The advertisement matter may be painted both inside and outside vehicles such as vans, buses, trains etc. d) Electric Display: Many advertisers use advertisement boards illuminated with colour lights these days particularly in big cities and towns. e) Sky Advertising: It includes notices, pamphlets etc., that are dropped from Aeroplanes / helicopters. Huge inflated balloons, bearing the brand name or brand mark of a company's product, floated from tall buildings will also form part of sky advertising.

1	1. Advertising is important for the customers 2. Advertising is important for the seller and companies producing the products 3. Advertising is important for the society	3X1	3
2	As evident from the word “covert”, this type of advertising aims to integrate the advertising with the non-promotional mediums. This practice is most-commonly found in films. For example, billboards of the products may be shown in the film for a prolonged period of time.	3X1	3 public service advertising aims at spreading awareness about issues that are relevant to public interest. Such ads may quote a political viewpoint, a philosophy, or a religious concept. Such humanitarian ads are usually broadcasted on the radio or television, though they can also appear in newspapers and magazines

3	Using strong visuals, ads can draw on hidden fears. Some ads draw on personal fears, while others draw on a sense of loss. In the WWF ad, fear of losing something awesome may motivate people to take action and help save the forests.	3X1	3
4	• This medium not always give you a wide reach. • The cost incurred can sometimes be expensive considering the medium you choose like magazine. • Sometimes in some newspaper the news are shown is not true. The news are even twisted or distorted. • Print can only reach its audience when it is distributed through an infrastructure that requires vehicles and people, which costs money. • If you are targeting the global audience, then this is not the medium you should go for. Instead, the internet has a much wider reach than print media in this.	3X1	3
5	1. Advertising Plan. Advertising agency either prepares or helps in preparing advertising plans and programmes for its clients. 2. Creation and Execution. An advertising plan, prepared by the advertising agency will be sent to the advertiser for approval. 3. Co-ordination. Coordination is another important function of an advertising agency. ..	3X1	3
6	Print ads make use of a text and image design, which is composed of copy and visual elements. Both work together to deliver a single message to the target market. Image print ads deliver your message to your target market much faster because it makes use of visualization to impart its message. As opposed to reading a text, images are easier to process and understand. Text print ads are direct and precise in conveying a message. This style of writing is called copywriting and is used to advertise a product or service to the market.	1.5X2	3
